

Agranulocytes

Agranulocytes are white blood cells, whose cytoplasm does not contain secretory granules. White blood cells with these granules are referred to as granulocytes.

Agranulocytes are further divided into:

- lymphocytes;
- monocytes.

Links

Related articles

- White blood cells
- Immunity
- Blood

References

- KITTNAR, Otomar, et al. Lékařská fyziologie. 1. edition. Praha : Grada, 2011. ISBN 9788024730684.